LEARNING GOALS

This course introduces the student to the main topics of the political economy of tourism and transportation, with reference to the goals that the public authorities pursue in supporting the tourism sector, as well as the tools they use to achieve them. Its main purpose is to make students understand the role of the ‘tourist destination’ as an agglomeration of companies and organizations in a territorial connection which are involved in producing and marketing the overall tourism product.

EXPECTED LEARNING OUTCOMES (DUBLIN DESCRIPTORS)

- Making judgements: The ability to gather useful data and information to establish a connection between the main topics of the course and concrete cases.
- Communication skills: The student must demonstrate to be able to present the main contents of the topic in a clear and synthetic way, both written and oral.
- Learning skills: The ability to study independently, and the ability to participate in group work.

Knowledge and understanding

The student must demonstrate to have understood the microeconomic and macroeconomic logic to which the actions of all the actors of the tourism sector respond.

Applying knowledge and understanding

The student should be able to use this knowledge to analyze concrete experiences of specific tourist destinations.
